

The following flow diagrams have been drafted to assist providers when making decisions on whether to return a placement to HESA. This reflects the differences in approach that have been consulted on above. The first diagram explains that, depending on the type of activity a student is undertaking, their location information is recorded in different ways and to different levels of detail. This diagram has been developed with statutory customers to provide guidance for the updated Data Futures model that has not yet been published. The key decision-making process which will determine whether a placement should, or should not, be returned in Off-Venue activity is shown in the second flow diagram.
